

THE NINJAWARRIORS

TAITO™

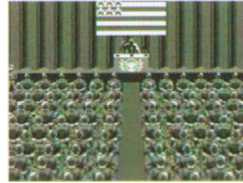

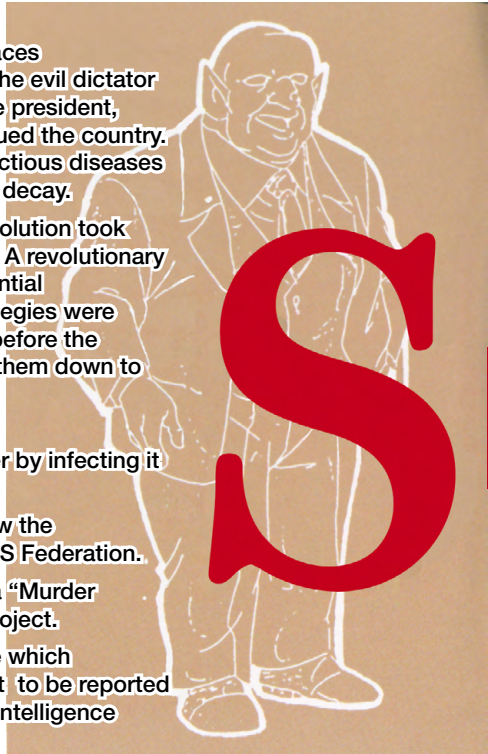

1993

This once-prosperous nation now faces unprecedented danger! Ever since the evil dictator Banglar used dark magic to become president, murder, drugs, and crime have plagued the country. Civil disturbances, poverty, and infectious diseases have spread. Society has fallen into decay.

In the midst of this, the seeds of revolution took root among the downtrodden many. A revolutionary army formed to carry out a “presidential assassination plan.” Countless strategies were presented, and with just one week before the execution date, they had narrowed them down to three candidates.

1. Destroy the Government’s central communications master computer by infecting it with a virus.
2. Instruct Kelly Platoon to overthrow the government in collaboration with S Federation.
3. Assassinate the president using a “Murder Machine” courtesy of the Mulk Project.

The Council of Elders was to decide which operation to proceed with, the result to be reported to the Operations Headquarters by intelligence officer Lee Wong.

TORY

However, Lee Wong had been marked by the authorities, making it impossible for him to visit the headquarters in person. Instead, fellow agent OGR was assigned to find Lee Wong and hear the selection results from him directly.

OGR wandered the streets in search of Lee Wong, but when he eventually found him, his body was already cold. The only clue was a series of letters written in blood—“ZTT.”

OGR continued wandering in search of the meaning of the mysterious letters “ZTT.” By chance, he stumbled upon the letters while glancing into a live bar. As he began asking questions about the band, a song suddenly caught his ears.

“What’s the name of this song?”

“Daddy Mulk!”

That was it! The name of the song revealed the final decision.

A few days later, the operation to assassinate the president by “Murder Machine” commenced.
